Details

Background and Priorities:

The objective of the Public Humanities Hub Impact Awards (PHIA) is to stimulate humanities research that engages the public through five stipends of $3,000 each.

For the 2019 edition of this award, the focus of the Impact Awards is in realizing a short-term research and/or creation project, with a public-facing deliverable to be presented at the UBC Okanagan Public Humanities Conference on July 11, 2020. Outputs should take the form of a dynamic, interactive presentation (such as a pop up exhibition, projection, short talk, performance, etc.) In their proposals, applicants should indicate if there are particular infrastructural needs (such as audio-visual requirements), and may suggest particular suitable settings for the presentation of their output (such as a gallery, auditorium, outdoor space, café, etc.) Proposals should demonstrate attention to the accessibility of their output to diverse audiences and abilities.

Value and Duration:

The total value of this award is $3,000, which comes in the form of a stipend.

Stipends will be released in two installments: on March 15 ($1,500), and August 30 ($1,500). For stipends to be released, recipients must fulfill the required conditions (see “Reporting”).

Application: All fields in the application form must be completed to be eligible for consideration. Additionally, applicants must submit CVs. In the case of faculty members, UBC CVs are required. No other documentation is required.

Signatures: Signatures of the applicants and Department/Unit Heads (if applicable) must accompany all applications (digital signatures are acceptable). A Separate RPIF is not required for this internal competition.

All questions relating to this program should be sent to public.humanities.ok@ubc.ca.

Application Submission
Submit completed applications (including signature page) to ORS either digitally via email to researchoffice.ubco@ubc.ca or to

Office of Research Services, UBC Okanagan Campus
FIPKE 319

PLEASE NOTE: Supplementary documentation will not be accepted after the application has been submitted, unless requested by the Office of Research Services. Late applications will NOT be accepted.
Evaluation:

Applications are adjudicated by a committee of your Okanagan Campus faculty peers. The adjudication committee is interdisciplinary and therefore it is in the applicant’s best interest to propose their project/request in clear, plain language, keeping jargon and acronyms to a minimum or providing adequate explanations for them. Thus, applicants are strongly encouraged to write about the proposed research in non-technical language understandable to researchers in other fields.

Criteria (equally weighted)

- Challenge: meets program objectives and criteria
- Challenge: project’s originality and contribution to knowledge
- Feasibility: likelihood that listed timelines/ objectives will be met
- Capability: link between researcher’s experience (CV) and proposed activities/project

A minimum of two of the awards will be reserved for students, so long as a sufficient number of qualifying submissions are made and judged to be deserving.

Additional Information:

Research Ethics: If the research study in the application requires review and approval by one of the UBC’s Research Ethics Boards (i.e. Behavioral, Clinical, Animal or Biohazard), ethics approval must be obtained within six months of the award date or the grantee will forfeit the award.

Reporting: The Impact Award recipients are required to one 300-500w blog post about their Public Humanities initiative. These blog posts are a crucial means of communicating with the UBC community and the general public.

The blog post must be submitted before the final installment can be released. Additionally, for the 2019 edition of the award, the final stipend installment will be not be released unless a deliverable is presented at the UBC Okanagan Public Humanities conference in July 2020.
